chronicisms.

That your readers may know something of the present gathering, however, I will briefly state its history. The battle of Gettysburg extended over an area of thirty square miles, and is considered, tooking at it is all its aspects, one of the greatest contests ever known in military annate. It will ever live in history as such. Appreciating this fact the idea occurred to Mr. D. McConaughy, (a promisent lawyer of this city,) on the 4th day of July, 1863, and while the dead bodies of those slain still lay where they had fallen, that the effort should be made to secure the ground whereon the main contests were fought, and hold it either as national or State property, to 'be forever a silent witness of the skill and bravery of American soldiers, and a never-falling point of interest to the American interest. With his lies in his mind, Mr. McConaughy opened a correspondence lean citizen. With this idea in his mind, Mr. McConaughy opened a correspondence with many prominent men of the country, giving his views and soliciting theirs.

His idea was easyry grasped, and after the opinions of some of the abiest men of the country had been obtained, it was depided that a company should be formed, to be known as the Gettyabarg Battle-Field Memorial Association, its design to be to purchase and hold in absolute tenure the more important points of the battle ground, its object to perpetuate the history of the battle in its simpla truth, and to that end make the battle-field its own interpretar. The company was have succession of dainties as delicious to the taste as they are health-giving in their tens that he they are health-giving in their qualities.

For children, especially, well-selected, right finit in proper quantities will prevent half the dangerous diseases of summer. The acids of the currant and whortleberry are far better vermitages than many of the patent preparations for that purpose. Black bearing have a complex over a system, and the patent preparations for that purpose. Black bearing have a complex of the system. The hotel has just passed into the hands of Mr. George Hoppes, furnerly proprisor of the Heeds house, Williamsport, Ta. The proprietor is convicous and gaudemanny and seems unematiting in his efforts to please all.
There have been a number of Washingtomians here during the season, but with the scoppion of Major Russell and his family, they have now all departed.

The hotel is in the immediate vicinity of the scene of the first day's fight, and during yesterday afternoon General Mcredith, accompanied by quite a crowd, was cungaged in pointing out the spot where General Reynoids fell, and where his (Mcredith's) brigade took as prisoners a brigade of rebel troops under the command of General

troops under the command of General Archor.

A corps of United States topographical engineers have for some weeks past been making a survey of the entire battle field, under the direction of General Warren. Their labors are now nearly completed, a d General Warren asserts that they have succeeded admirably. From this survey a map 13 feet by 13 will be made upon which the positions designated by the generals will be marked. A plaster model of the matire field will also be made showing all the undulations of the ground. The positions will be marked on the model. This completed, lithographs can be made and distributed all over the country, and the citizen at a distance can obtain a good idea of what the battle field was by an examination of the map.

THE SECOND DAYS PROCEEDINGS Barking the Location of Regiments and Brigadas of the Second Day's Fight - Great Cape Exercised to According to the Second Indiana According Incident - Paintings of the Battle - Arrangements for the Gartise Battle - Arrangements and Second Edward Hop-Relies of the Battle Orrangements and Second At 9 o'cleek this morning the officer new seconds of the Second Second provided themselves with their conveyances, and soon its party were or route for the scene of conflict on the first day's fight scene of conflict on the first day of the Gettysburg battle. The arrangement had been made that the party should commence their observations at the seminary and for the morning's work locate the positions of the troops which occupied the ground in front of and to the left of the seminary building. On the road opposite to the seminary those of the party who occupied the ground in the party proceed.

Generals Meredith, Dana, and Robinson headed the crowd, and upon reaching the Ridge, near the seminary, the work commenced. As the position of each brigade and regiment was correctly ascertained a wooden stake was drives, and the name painted thereon. These stakes will at once be replaced by the granite blocks intended as the permanent "markers." The morning's work was principally to mark the position of the several branches of the First corps. The spots where General Reynolds and other Generals fell were also marked with stakes. In the afternoon the ground to the right of the seminary, as far as the Harrisburg road, which was occupied by the Eleventh corps, under General Roward, was gone over, and the positions of the regiments and brigades were "staked."

In many cases it was frond difficult to ascertain the exact location of single regiments, as the growth of the trees and shrubbery for six years had left of each brigade was marked off. The afternoon's work was mainly under the direction of Col. Asmusen, the chief of staff of General Howard, who was thoroughly familiat with every detail. The work of corne required a good deal of walking, at least ten miles of space having been traversed by the party, who were all thoroughly tired before they had completed their labor for the day. The result was cuttrely satisfactory to every one. In no case was a position marked until after commitation it was definely affectived that it was correct, and the opinion was ex-

The indisalions are that the hop will be a brilliant affair, as the greets, both Iadies and gentlemes, scent to have entered into the matter with a good deal of culturalism. A good many of the officers will leave to-morrow, those who were in the first and second days fight saying that nothing more remains for them to do.

There has been a good deal of comment in regard to the non-artival of the officers of the Confederate army, who is had been said would be present. But one or two have arrived, and they d's not seem locilied to talk of the Fennsylvania Historical Society, and is to be placed in the archives of that association.

A very heretive source of traffic in the town of Gettyeburg is the sale of relies from the bettle-field. One of the largest venders of these wares is a lock and gunsmith, who is very loquacious in the nationyst to find castomers for his goods. Happening into his shop to-day my attention was drawn to a mantiel ornament, the base of which was made of wood, but from a tree in the cemetry. By an ingenious arrangement pleces of shell, bullets and other relies had been grouped upon this wooden base, the whole surmounted with what was intended for an eagle in brass.

The loquacion merchant eagerly explained the various points of interest from which the eagle was cast, came, he seemed slightly taken aback, but finally remarked that it was a portion of the cape of shells found on the battle-fields. Looking through the establishment, I saw a pile of old brass and iron, &c., "Iying around loose." This, with other suspicious circumstances, sattende that brass eagles and "other rolles," would be made as long as lead melts, wood grows, and old brass can be bought in Gettysburg.

To-alght General Soi Mercelith was the recipient of a serenade, tendered him by an impromptu band composed of men of his old brigade who reaffe in Gettysburg. Although the muste did not equal in execution that of the Marine band, still the motive that importance of the superior of the muste did not equal in execution that of the Marine band, still the compliment paid him.
